The low, slow curves of CopperWynd Resort and Club's architecture merge with its 99-acre hilltop location on the border of Scottsdale and Fountain Hills, Arizona. Recognized in 2004 by Condé Nast Traveler's Gold List as one of "The World's Best Places to Stay," the AAA Four Diamond Award-winning resort offers a European-style country club, full-service spa, and 40 rooms and villas focused on breathtaking views of the Valley of the Sun—rimmed by the McDowell, Superstition, Four Peaks, Mazatzals, and Red Mountains.

Along with one of the best views in the valley, guests experience the best of the local lifestyle, a combination of desert serenity, world-class luxury, and year-round fun in the sun.

Guests and members alike gather at two mountainside swimming terraces, the poolside Pavilion Bar & Grille, a secluded garden waterfall Jacuzzi, and a 5,000-square-foot fitness center with programs in yoga, Pilates, BodyPump, spinning, and more.

Lighted tennis courts terrace down the mountain ridge, complemented by extensive training programs under the direction of USPTA professional Mark Snyder. Guests also claim preferred golf privileges at several famous courses in the area.

Golf Digest ranked neighboring SunRidge Canyon Golf Club among the top 50 "courses you can play" in the nation.

The Spa at CopperWynd invites guests to wind down with rejuvenating facial, body, and massage treatments as well as steam rooms and whirlpools. Many of the treatments reflect the Southwest setting, including the popular hot-stone massage and the ScenTao "Perscentology" treatment that includes the resort's signature toe reading—a unique way for guests to gain insights into their lives through reflexology.

The concierge can easily arrange for mountain biking, horseback riding, and hot-air balloon rides, all just minutes from Scottsdale's renowned shopping, art galleries, and nightlife. For guests seeking the ultimate thrill, the resort offers one- to four-night auto racing packages in partnership with the Bob Bondurant School of High Performance Driving. Or, for a different kind of adventure, guests can take part in a genuine Wild West cattle drive that rivals the movies of yesteryear.

One of the area's favorite nighttime hot spots, the AAA Four Diamond Award-winning Alchemy at CopperWynd, entertains right at the resort. The restaurant's metallic hues—including ceiling lights and fused-glass doors in shades of eggplant and copper —create a shimmering backdrop for a memorable dining experience. Enticing appetizers, unusual entrees, amazing drinks, and dazzling views of mountains and desert through open floor-to-ceiling panels contribute to the glamour, magic, and fun.

Next door, the Sonoran View Room provides an intimate setting for private parties and elegant seated dinners against another backdrop of dramatic mountain views. Chef Paul O'Connor—known for his entertaining, outgoing style—personally attends and serves at these special events.

The 32 guest rooms all feature generous proportions and walls of glass, marble counters, gas fireplaces, custom Italian furniture, Filo d'Oro linens, and balconies with sweeping mountain views. The bathrooms boast oversize tubs, expansive vanities, and spacious showers. Extra touches range from welcome refreshments and elaborate nightly turndown service on request to wireless high-speed Internet access.

Guests may also retire to eight of the resort's villas. They provide up to 3,000 square feet of space; separate kitchen, dining, and living areas; two or three bedrooms; and equally stunning views.

Groups as well as individuals appreciate CopperWynd's intimate boutique atmosphere, its proximity to Scottsdale and Phoenix, and the friendly, helpful staff. Add privacy, panoramic views, and a setting tailor-made for relaxation, and guests find an unparalleled experience in the Valley of the Sun.
